TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE CENTER STRATEGY

Mosi Kamau Kitwana
Director
Community Healing Network

Mosi Kamau Kitwana is a former executive for national and international associations of mayors and local government chief executives, including the U.S. Conference of Mayors and the International City/County Management Association. His portfolio in those positions included advancing leading policies and practices for sustainability, public safety, and governance through technical assistance, training, and peer-to-peer learning around the world. He was also responsible for association and corporate partnership initiatives for business, environmental, and social responsibility. Mosi's current work with the Community Healing Network includes preparing communities to implement Emotional Emancipation Circles, which are evidence-informed, culturally grounded, self-help support groups facilitated by and for Black people.
